

Marine Mammals Sightings

Since the beginning of this year, an abnormal number of strandings of dolphins (striped dolphins and bottlenose dolphins) has been recorded along the Tyrrhenian coast in Italy. Given the importance of the protection of cetaceans as indicators of the marine ecosystem, we have decided to publish a map for real-time sharing of geo-referenced information concerning sightings and reports of cetaceans and/or other marine animals (both alive and stranded).
