Community Reporting 2012

Community reporting is a pulse check. We are building metrics to highlight community growth. The next stage of metrics will include feedback loops and involvement in the community. These will be more complex to collect due to the tools that Ushahidi uses. These need to be properly integrated: better for users and better for us to know how we are doing.